My NET WORTHWHILE™ is seeking the next opportunity to foster financial confidence.

Raised by a single mom, Jamie has a passion for providing support and education to women who find themselves facing major financial decisions on their own. The path of her professional career has afforded constant opportunities to share that passion. Jamie feels blessed to wake up each day and help clients accomplish their goals and dreams by identifying and implementing the most effective financial tools and strategies.

Jamie joined SignatureFD during the firm's early years. She was the first Planning Associate and dedicated a decade to the development and implementation of the firm's vision for the Wealth Management Team. She also helped establish the framework for our Solutions Team. In her current role as advisor for SignatureWOMEN, Jamie is involved at all levels of tailoring wealth advisory services to the unique needs of today's woman investors with specialization in the development and implementation of customized financial plans. Specific attention is given to those areas in which she can assist others with her expertise in risk management.

She is a graduate of the Georgia State University's top-ranked Risk Management & Insurance program. Her passion for both the RMI industry and student leadership sparked successful reactivation of the GSU chapter of Gamma Iota Sigma, an international professional fraternity – which continues as a currently active student program. Jamie is a member of the Financial Planning Association and past NexGen Board Member for FPA of Georgia.

In her personal life, Jamie is an active volunteer serving the local community as a Representative for City of Atlanta's Planning Advisory Board. She is also a member of the Midtown Neighborhood Association and serves on their License & Permits Committee. In her spare time, you will find her planning a new mountain bike adventure or attending live music shows with husband Bill.
