My Net Worthwhile® is providing peace of mind by helping clients protect their wealth and give more to those they love.

Stacy's greatest passion is to help those who want to do more for their families, communities and businesses. For over 20 years, she has used her skills and industry knowledge to help clients navigate their business success, estate planning, and wealth transfer goals. For Stacy, learning about someone's journey and helping them fulfill their dreams is the best part of her job.

When Stacy's father was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer at age 55, Stacy saw first-hand how people who were financially responsible could still be devastated by the unexpected. As a result, she changed her career path to focus more on insurance to help families protect what they have worked so hard to obtain while also protecting those they love.

Stacy graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a Bachelor of Science in Business and has earned the Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) designation.

When not helping clients, Stacy loves reading, meditation, bicycling and being active in the Atlanta community.
