My Net Worthwhile® is being a source of positivity while handling the day-to-day details so that clients can work towards achieving their financial goals.

With a keen eye for organization and a talent for time management, Victoria is a reliable and trusted point of contact for clients who need essential tasks completed, like transfers, wires, account updates, and paperwork. She has a decade of experience working as a Relationship Manager and loves helping clients with tasks so they can focus on the bigger picture.

She has a knack for organizing big projects into manageable parts using checklists, schedules, and a plan that she can easily track to get things done efficiently. Victoria has a Bachelor's Degree in Business and Finance from the University of South Carolina.

Victoria initially discovered her passion through an internship in the field. She is an Advisory Board Member of her local Chi Omega chapter, supporting the current President and Vice President as they learn and manage the chapter's executive board. In addition, she loves traveling and spending quality time with her husband, dog, and friends.
